

Argentina and Food Protectionism: A Reality Check

Argentina's new protectionist measures in 2017 mostly targeted the agrifood sector

At the World Economic Forum, Argentina's president advocated for further trade integration and food security

Yet in 2017 Argentina ranked the fifth most protectionist country in terms of number of new measures. Specifically, measures impacting the agrifood sector have not exhibited a downward trend since the new president came to office
