Managing global risk with EH “Transactional Cover” solutions

A globalized world means globalized risk. The increasing complexity of global trade and finance is often accompanied by changes in the types and levels of risk, including sometimes sudden political risk. These evolving risks can impact financial institutions and transactions as well as trade and investment with local or foreign partners.

Financial institutions, investors and businesses operating internationally, or intending to do so, can take advantage of Euler Hermes’ unrivalled risk analysis experience and expertise to safeguard their assets and ensure compliance with regulatory, financial and partner requirements.

Euler Hermes offers a range of products, Transactional Cover solutions, which are designed with the flexibility to meet these changing needs.
